

Whistleblower Complaint

“In the course of my official duties, I have received information from multiple U.S. Government officials that the President of the United States is using the power of his office to solicit interference from a foreign country in the 2020 U.S. election”

Chairman Schiff sets forth the parameters of the hearings

1. Did the President request that a foreign leader and government initiate investigations to benefit the President’s personal political interests in the United States, including an investigation related to the President’s political rival and potential opponent in the 2020 U.S. presidential election?
2. Did the President—directly or through agents—seek to use the power of the Office of the President and other instruments of the federal government in other ways to apply pressure on the head of state and government of Ukraine to advance the President’s personal political interests, including by leveraging an Oval Office meeting desired by the President of Ukraine or by withholding U.S. military assistance to Ukraine?
3. Did the President and his Administration seek to obstruct, suppress or cover up information to conceal from the Congress and the American people evidence about the President’s actions and conduct?

Deposition highlights of those testifying publicly this week

Marie L. Yovanovitch
Former U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine

“Marie Yovanovitch, former Ambassador to Ukraine, testifies that Trump pressured State Department to oust her” – Chicago Tribune

George Kent
Deputy Assistant Secretary of State

“Kent told investigators he was cut out of Ukraine policymaking after May meeting with Chief of Staff Mick Mulvaney” – New York Times

Gordon Sondland
U.S. Ambassador to the European Union

“William Taylor described Trump’s demand that ‘everything’ President Volodymyr Zelensky wanted, including vital aid to counter Russia, hinged on making a public vow that Ukraine would investigate Democrats going back to the 2016 U.S. election as well as a company linked to the family of Trump’s potential 2020 Democratic rival.” – Associated Press

Deposition highlights of those testifying publicly next week

Tuesday

Jennifer Williams
An aide to Vice President Mike Pence

“Jennifer Williams, an aide in the vice president’s office and a long time State Department staffer, said the phone call did not have the normal tone of a diplomatic call” – CNN

Wednesday

Gordon Sondland
U.S. ambassador to the European Union

“Gordon Sondland testifies that he never thought there was any precondition on the aid.” – International New York times

Thursday

Fiona Hill
Former National Security Council senior director for Europe and Russia

“In a dramatic reversal from his previous testimony, Gordon Sondland now says that a quid pro quo was needed from Kiev to free up military aid” – CNN

“Hill testifies that former National Security Advisor John Bolton was so alarmed by the back-channel activities with Ukraine that he described Giuliani as a ‘hand grenade who is going to blow everybody up.’” – LA Times

Lt. Col. Alexander Vindman
Who serves as the director for European Affairs at the National Security Council

“Alexander Vindman told House investigators that he did not think it was proper to demand that a foreign government investigate a U.S. citizen” – The Washington Post

Laura Cooper
The deputy assistant secretary of Defense for Eurasian Affairs

“Once Laura Cooper’s testimony began, she provided a very technical readout of how foreign aid is disbursed, according to lawmakers. Several lawmakers say her testimony helped show that the Ukraine aid deviated from that normal process” – CNN International

Ambassador Kurt Volker
the former U.S. special envoy to Ukraine

“Volker depicts Giuliani as the driving force behind an effort to get Ukraine to investigate Joe and Hunter Biden” – CBS News

David Hale
The undersecretary of State for political affairs

“David Hale told investigators that political considerations were behind the agency’s refusal to deliver a robust defense of the former U.S. ambassador to Ukraine.” – PBS

Timothy Morrison
A White House aide with the National Security Council focusing on Europe and Russia policy

“Tim Morrison testified Thursday that he was told President Donald Trump wanted a top Ukrainian official to announce an investigation that would help the President politically before US security aid to Ukraine would be released, corroborating a key part of US diplomat Bill Taylor’s testimony that’s central to the Democrats’ impeachment inquiry.” – CNN

House Intelligence Committee

Adam Schiff
California, Chair, Democrat

“It is important to underscore that the House’s impeachment inquiry, and the Committee, will not serve as venues for any Member to further the same sham investigations into the Bidens or into debunked conspiracies about 2016 U.S. election interference that President Trump pressed Ukraine to undertake for his personal political benefit. Nor will the Committee facilitate any efforts by President Trump or his allies to threaten, intimidate, or retaliate against the whistleblower who courageously and lawfully raised concerns about the President’s conduct.” – Adam Schiff

Devin Nunes
California, Ranking Member, Republican

“Because President Trump should be afforded an opportunity to confront his accusers, the anonymous whistleblower should testify.” – Devin Nunes
