

Bribery Risk Tool

The economic downturn is likely to affect the way that businesses work for the foreseeable future. As with any economic challenge, the risk of bribery and corruption will increase significantly.

Our Bribery Risk Tool (BRT) helps you understand your bribery and corruption risk and ensure that your policies and procedures are fit for purpose.

BRT is a free, intuitive online tool that allows you to assess and understand the bribery risks faced by your business, perform due diligence on associated persons or determine the bribery risks of a transaction. Using a bespoke system developed by the Dentons team, BRT adapts to information provided about your business, highlighting relevant issues. After you answer a series of tailored questions, BRT provides you with a bespoke report tailored to your business.

Based on the UK Bribery Act 2010, often seen as the gold standard of anti-bribery legislation, BRT identifies risks enabling you to take appropriate and proportionate steps for effective mitigation. Our dedicated BRT team will be on hand to recommend actions and advise on putting effective policies and procedures in place to mitigate the highlighted risks.
